MOTHER'S DAY is an occasion eagerly awaited by millions of mums all over Great Britain.

Youngsters delight in giving their doting mums a well deserved day off from the familiar weekend routine of cooking Sunday lunch, wading through piles of ironing and general housework.

And why not?

Every mum deserves VIP treatment at least once a year just to show that they really are appreciated.

Everyone's mum is a 'super-mum' and every mum is the best.

Being a mum is no easy occupation and requires a special talent. She is always there when you need her. That's why Mother's Day is so special, the chance to show how much you care.

Mums are usually easy to please however little money you have to spend and however simple your idea may be.

And one thing's for sure - a rest from slaving over a hot stove on Mothering Sunday would come as a welcome change.

If you cannot afford to take your mum out for a meal, then why not pull out the recipe books and cook up a little surprise?

It's bound to be greatly appreciated as long as you don't forget the washing up afterwards!

If you want to splash out, there are lots of places to take mum for a Sunday treat, either for a slap-up meal in the evening at a restaurant or a pub lunch combined with a trip out somewhere.

There's no end of present ideas; flowers are always a good stand-by, and many florists will be able to make up an individual bouquet of fresh flowers.

For something more lasting there are also lots of dried and artificial flower arrangements on sale.

Perfume also goes down well, especially if you know what her favourite fragrance is.

And there are usually matching body lotions and soaps available to make a complete set.

Lingerie is another alternative, with lots of attractive colours and designs to choose from.

Jewellery is always a winner. It all depends how much you want to spend, but again there are lots of choice, covering a whole range of price brackets from a pair of gold earrings through to rings and necklaces.

So don't leave it until the last minute - start thinking about something special for your mum.

Mother's Day

Cherish the most important lady in your life out for your mum?

THIS year give Mum a really special day and lavish her with a great gift.

From pocket money buys to luxury treats, there's something special to suit all budgets in the shops.

For a really thoughtful gift, your mum will be delighted with this Marks & Spencer luxury hat box, opposite page top left, £35.

Mums love to organise and where better to have a little of their own sanctuary but in their own bedroom?

Choose from a range of pretty mirrored jewellery boxes, left middle, from £25 to £55 from The Pier.

For a gift inspired by the east choose from this collection of cherry blossom print vases, sculptured into a kimono style dress, left bottom, £10 to £25 from The Pier.

An unusual and pretty pair of pink ballet shoes are sure to please.

This pair, top right, cost £19.50 from Marks & Spencer.

The floral display, right middle, will last and last because it is made from silk, £2 to £15 from The Pier.

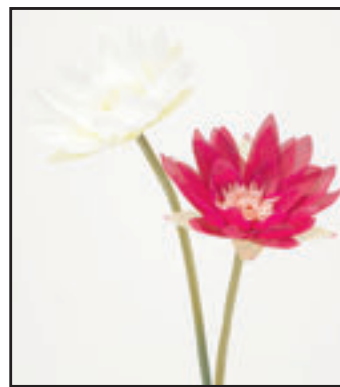

A butterfly silk picture frame makes a lovely gift, £10 from The Pier.

Your mum may have a special hobby or she may be practical and appreciate something for the house.

Remember, it's the thought that counts and whatever you decide on, it's bound to be welcome.

So don't leave it until the last minute - start thinking about something special for your mum.

She deserves it! Whatever you do, don't forget the card!
